1. Corrects Loewenberg.
2. Corrects Loewenberg. See Sydney Morning Herald.
3. This is the first performance traced in Sao Paulo, although the first performance listed in the annals by Castro-Cerquera is given as Dec. 1874.
4. First opera in Bulgarian.
5. Given in English in 1852?
6. Corrects Loewenberg.
7. Loewenberg has 1840. This may neither be disproved nor substantiated.
8. First performance in Italian traced.
9. Corrects Loewenberg.
10. First performance traced, but very likely to have been given earlier.
11. An earlier performance at another house is possible.
12. Loewenberg gives May 5, but April seems much more likely.
13. Corrects Loewenberg. See Journal desDébats.
14. Earlier performances in French are likely.
15. First performance traced.
16. Corrects Loewenberg. See Revue et Gazette Musicale 1850, p. 407. Since this season is not mentioned in the Annals of the Theatre Royal by Levey and O'Rourke, it is probable that it took place at a different theatre.
17. Loewenberg gives March 1843. This seems highly unlikely, but cannot be disproved. Later performances in Italian or in German are possible.
18. Probably first time in Italian.
19. First performance traced.

20. First complete opera in Auckland. It may well have also opened the season in Wellington, which was the company's first stop in New Zealand.
21. Corrects Loewenberg.
22. First performance traced.
23. First performance traced.
24. Loewenberg gives November 1841. This can neither be disproved nor substantiated.
25. Corrects Loewenberg.
26. Corrects Loewenberg, although still earlier performances are possible.
27. Loewenberg gives 839. This can neither be disproved nor substantiated.
28. Announced, but it can not be stated for certain that the performance took place.
29. Announced as local premiere in the Los Angeles Times, but this is not necessarily true.
